

The Scandinavian Society of Neuro-Oncology Meeting 2016 in Copenhagen

2016 | Copenhagen | May 19-21 | Odd Fellow Palace

Welcome

Dear colleagues, dear participants. We are looking forward to welcoming you at the Scandinavian Society of Neuro-Oncology (SNOG) Meeting from the 19th to the 21st of May 2016 in Copenhagen.

The Meeting

SNOG is a multidisciplinary organization dedicated to promoting advances in the field of brain tumor treatment through research and education. At the SNOG meeting 2016 leading scientists and their research groups will present novel results and disputed topics will be discussed. It is an interdisciplinary meeting where interested scientists and clinicians, working with brain tumors, can present their work in oral presentations chosen from submitted abstracts. Furthermore, new trends in neuro-oncology will be discussed by prominent invited scientists.

Location

The meeting will take place at the Odd Fellow Palace in the heart of Copenhagen. The palace was built in 1751 as a Rococo town mansion and is located close to Kongens Nytorv, Amalienborg Palace and Frederik's Church (Marmorkirken) and Rosenborg Castle Gardens (Kongens Have).

Invited speakers

Guido Reifenberger, MD, DMSc, Professor, Institute of Neuropathology, University Hospital Düsseldorf, Germany (Presentation: "Advanced molecular diagnostics and the new WHO classification of gliomas")

Michael Weller, MD, DMSc, Professor, Department of Neurology, University Hospital Zurich, Switzerland (Presentation: "Immunotherapy of glioblastoma: a new horizon")

John H. Sampson, MD, PhD, MBA, MHSc, Professor and Chief, Division of Neurosurgery, Duke University, USA (Presentation: "Convection-enhanced delivery for Brain Tumors")

Christian la Fougère, MD, DMSc, Professor, Division of Nuclear Medicine and clinical Molecular Imaging, University of Tübingen, Germany (Presentation: "The Role of Molecular Imaging in Brain Tumours")

Morten Høyer, MD, PhD, Professor, Department of Oncology, Aarhus University Hospital, Denmark

Petra Witt Nyström, MD, PhD, Department of Oncology, Uppsala University Hospital, Sweden

Special Lectures

- Søs Egelind, Actor, entertainer, comedian and lecturer. Søs survived cancer twice and shares her experience in a personal, life-affirming, thoughtful and positive talk about life threatening disease and how to go through a severe crisis and come out on the other side as a wiser, happier and more grateful human being.
- Peter Vuust is a unique combination of a jazz musician and a world class scientist. As a researcher, he is Denmark's leading expert in the field of music and the brain. He built up the group Music in the Brain, which aims at understanding the neural processing of music, by using a combination of advanced music theory, behavioural experience, and state-of-the-art brain scanning methods. This research has the potential to significantly influence the way we play, teach, and use music clinically, and impact our understanding of human brain function in general.
